Who is attending today?

The Foundation

- Prior CA/N Prevention webinars laid the foundation for the discussion today....
- 1. We all have a role in keeping children in Maine safe, stable, happy, and healthy.
- 2. There are multiple strategies for strengthening families to prevent mental illness, suicide, substance use disorder, and child abuse/neglect.
 - One strategy we heard about in June: Protective Factors.
- We have an opportunity to leverage prevention efforts to strengthen our approach to prevent child abuse and neglect in Maine.

SHARED GOALS IN PUBLIC HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES...

The Safety and Well Being of Adults and Children in Maine

Strengthening and Supporting Individuals and Families

Ensuring Individuals and Families have what they need to be safe, happy, healthy, and successful.

National Support for Prevention & Collaboration

- The American Public Human Services Association (APHSA) and the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials (ASTHO) have partnered to support states and counties in seizing the monumental opportunity to shift the paradigm so that prevention of downstream child welfare involvement is a core priority for all family and community-serving entities (public health/human services).
- A collective vision rests on building a foundational family well-being roadmap based on known protective factors, strength-based approaches, and necessary universal support for all families.
- Leading Prevention: https://www.leadingprevention.com/
 - Resources available to establish a better cross-programmatic partnership between child welfare agencies and other essential agencies and community partners.

The Common Threads...

Social Determinants of Health

Conditions in the environments where people are born, live, learn, work, play, worship, and age that affect a wide range of health, functioning, and quality-of-life outcomes and risks.

What Are Adverse Childhood Experiences?

Adverse childhood experiences, or ACEs, mean potentially traumatic events in childhood (0-17 years) such as neglect and experiencing or witnessing violence.

ACEs can negatively impact physical, mental, emotional, and behavioral development.

ACEs can also have lasting effects on health, well-being, and prosperity well into adulthood.

ACEs Can Echo Across Generations

The consequences of ACEs can be passed down from one generation to the next if children don't have protective buffers like...

positive childhood experiences

OR

a caring adult in their lives.

Also, when families experience historical and systemic racism or living in poverty for generations, the effects of ACEs can add up over time.

Protective Factors Build Supportive Communities & Strong Families

A strengths-based approach developed by the Center for the Study of Social Policy, which are characteristics that have been shown to make positive outcomes more likely for young children and their families, and to reduce the likelihood of child abuse and neglect.

Addressing Risk Factors: Opportunities for Collaboration

- Mental Illness and Substance Use Disorder are two major risk factors in Child Abuse and Neglect.
- The strategies for the prevention of mental illness, suicide, substance use and child abuse and neglect have significant overlaps.
- Existing work in Maine on the continuum of prevention provides for opportunities for us to all work together towards the common goals to support and strengthen individuals and families in Maine.

Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention

It's everyone's role and responsibility to ensure children in Maine are safe.

CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION COUNCILS

The Front Porch Project is a community-based primary prevention initiative based on the belief that: Everyone can – and should – become more aware of how to help protect children and support families in their own communities.

- It provides community members with the knowledge, skills, and encouragement they need to take an active role in preventing abuse and neglect.
- Each workshop offers facilitated discussions and interactive activities that can help community members navigate difficult situations involving children and families and offers strategies for offering support.
- The Front Porch Project® is flexible and can be adapted to meet the needs of a specific community. This free workshop is provided by local Prevention Councils, both in person or virtually, and is open to everyone.

The Front Porch Project® was developed by the Pennsylvania Family Support Alliance.

Maine Children's Trust is the first organization to make this project available on a statewide basis.

Mental Health & Suicide Prevention

Everyone has Mental Health!

Mental Health

Mental Health

- Just like Physical Health, we all have Mental Health.
- Our Mental Health requires care and attention.
- Some days we may feel mentally healthy or unhealthy.
- Taking care of ourselves and seeking help when we are not feeling mentally healthy is a sign of strength.

Mental Illness

- Just like physical health, there may be days we are feeling not well.
- Identification of a problem early is key and intervening with services and supports is important.

Mental Health Disorder

- Mental Health Disorder is a clinically diagnosed condition.
- It involves changes in chemistry of the brain and body that may require medication to treat.

MENTAL HEALTH PROMOTION works to increase protective factors and healthy behaviors to help prevent the onset of and reduce risk factors that can lead to a diagnosable mental health disorder.
